SUMMARY

When the lines between reality and magic blur, one teen must find the power within to save the worlds. One minute James is just a normal sarcastic high schooler living an uneventful life; the next, he's exploring a magical place and stumbles upon a crystal ball which transports him into another dimension. Stuck inside this unfamiliar place, James is catapulted through multiple eras in different bodies he cannot control. Here he meets two wizards and an elf. To get back to Earth, they must survive strange worlds and figure out how to escape. Enemies, both wizard and robotic, begin to emerge with magical powers beyond imagination. Every last one of them is driven by a lust for power over the magical worlds. A lust that is destined to start a war. Both enemy forces claim the other is bad, and are equally convincing. With the worlds at risk, due to corruption and rumours of destruction, James needs to figure out who he can trust. To fight the corruption and save both Earth and the magical worlds, James must learn the truth and awaken the powers that have always lived inside him.
